

The data revolution triggered by the ever-increasing availability of more-or-less structured data from varying sources can be governed by tools that allow for its harmonization, interconnection, interpretation and use to extract cognitive and economic value.

Stat4Value represents a highly scientific strategic partner for the customized development of software solutions capable of managing, harmonizing and analyzing your business data, allowing it to prosper and be competitive.

For your business, Stat4Value develops the modular software platform DataMIND (Data Modular INtegration Driver) customized to your requirements, and includes diversified modules to collect and systematically manage data and big data, and to process it using Advanced Analytics and Machine Learning technology.

The software developers' expertise in web-based architecture and the methods and models of Data Analytics, gained through scientific research, allows Stat4Value to guide you through the process of defining models to include in DataMIND, looking for ways to integrate with other components or software used by your business, resulting in a complete representation of your data management and analysis system.

The Stat4Value team is ready to guide your business and integrate the realization of DataMIND with training support and assistance to ensure you and your collaborators become expert operators capable of controlling the path to digital innovation and data revolution.

Stat4Value
empowering data

stat4value.com
info@stat4value.com

UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI
DI PADOVA

to exploit your business data

Data produced internally and/or externally sourced, properly processed and integrated by Stat4Value, is transformed into exclusive, up-to-date cognitive value to benefit your business.

to be part of the digital innovation and data revolution

From data harmonization and integration to processing with Data Analytics and Machine Learning technologies, Stat4Value guides your company through the transition from traditional systems to the most recent innovations.

Choose

Stat4Value
empowering data

as your strategic partner

to build a customized data management and analysis system

Working with the Stat4Value team allows you to select the most advantageous processes, algorithms and techniques for the specific needs of your company, obtaining a customized data management and analysis system configuration.

to empower your decisions
with a data-driven approach

The solutions created for you by Stat4Value allow you to control decision-making processes in an informed manner, taking you on a journey where the value of information extracted from the data completes and strengthens the knowledge of your business.